

He will listen to his handler and focus on obstacles like he was trained to do. He will respond favorably to challenges on the trail. The confident and well broke mule has a partnership with his owner and is eager to please him. He is focused on his handler at all times.

He has a good attitude, is curious and is eager to learn. He is not a pest, he is your partner. There will be disagreements, however the confident and well trained mule has respect for and not fear of his handler.

